

Foraging With Friends

Group Info:

My name is Marleigh Bartleson.

I am a one person team.

I aim to help people without a solid home survive in their community.

App Rationale:

- This app will show locally foragable foods and medicines.
- This could help decrease hunger in our community.

Design Process:

- I went through hours of research and designing, to ensure everything was true and user-friendly.

I spent a big chunk of the time adding commands and functions to my app, such as linking a button to another page or website.

I have also spent time adding pictures of each plant and fungi that I included so far in my app.

Target Audience:

- Beginner hikers, homeless members of our community who have access to a phone or library, or people struggling in general.

- My app will have information about various plants and fungi, including sections of harmful ones, and edible ones. This will also inform you about medicinal benefits, and harmful side effects.

- I believe the app interface is user-friendly, as no harsh colours or confusing controls occur within the app. I used commands and functions in my app.

Next Steps:

I would like to add a map where people could post where they've been, and what they've found there.
